Good morning everyone,

Today, I want to talk about something we often try to avoid—failure.

We all want to succeed. We want good grades, we want to win competitions, we want everything to go right. But life doesn't always work that way, and that's okay.

Failure is not the end—it's the beginning. It's how we grow. When we fail, we learn what doesn't work. We learn to reflect, to adjust, and to try again, better than before.

Think about great people—like Thomas Edison, who failed hundreds of times before inventing the light bulb. Or A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, who once failed to join the Air Force—but went on to become the Missile Man of India and our beloved President. They didn't stop at failure—they used it as fuel.

So if you've ever failed a test, lost a match, or felt like giving up—just remember: You're learning. You're growing. You're getting stronger.

Don't be afraid to fall. Be proud of getting back up.

Because that's what real success looks like.

Thank you.
